About Seyfarth Shaw

Seyfarth Shaw is a global leader in labour and employment law with over 850 lawyers in the United States, London, Shanghai and now Australia. For over 65 years, we have been recognised as a premier labour and employment law firm representing many of the world's largest companies.

Seyfarth Shaw is an acknowledged innovator in delivering legal services more effectively, efficiently and transparently. The firm has gained acclaim for its innovative SeyfarthLean® client service model, which incorporates the core principles of Lean Six Sigma to the delivery of legal services.

Our Australian practice

Establishing Seyfarth Shaw Australia demonstrates Seyfarth's long-term commitment to being a leading labour, employment and safety firm.

We are excited to bring a new specialist legal service offering to the Australian market. With offices in Sydney and Melbourne, we are Australia's only dedicated labour, employment and safety provider servicing leading employers as part of a global firm.

Seyfarth Shaw's unique client service delivery and matter management approach brings optimal value to employers. This approach allows our lawyers to focus on strategy and reduces the time and cost spent on process. In addition, our unique client collaboration capabilities enhance lawyer-client collaboration and provide clients with greater transparency of cost as well as improved matter oversight and management.

Our partners are widely regarded as market leaders in their field. Their considerable experience, when combined with our innovative client service delivery model, has established Seyfarth Shaw as a premier labour, employment and safety practice in Australia. We are able to draw upon the collective wisdom of all of the firm's partners for the benefit of our clients, and we can align specialisation with client need irrespective of location.
